BEARS and Other Top Predators Magazine is printed on 80-pound paper (suitable for coffee table books -- not like a typical magazine). The focus of BEARS is on grizzly brown bears, black bears, and polar bears, but each issue covers at least one other charismatic predator such as wolves, mountain lions, wolverines, alligators, etc. Every issue is filled with informative articles on bear biology, history, management, behavior and lore. The magazine is known for its objective, comprehensive, annual summaries of actual bear attacks in North America (with authoritative articles on how to avoid them). Each issue features a different guide for popular bear viewing areas, such as Katmai Coast, McNeil River, and Brooks River in Alaska; Glacier National Park, Yellowstone National Park, and Great Smoky Mountains National Park in the lower 48. The hallmark of these magazines is the stunning photography from some of the world's best wildlife photographers.
